HAVAS

Paris, June 22nd—Last night in the Chamber of Deputies, a member of the Left asked the Minister of Foreign Affairs if he would say what he knew about the English protectorate in Zanzibar. In reply, M. Ribot declared his belief that England would do nothing without the previous assent of France.

Madrid, June 22nd—The sanitary bulletin reports two deaths and ten fresh cases in the last twenty-four hours.

Paris, June 23rd—The Temps announces that the negotiations between France and England on the Zanzibar question are progressing satisfactorily. The same paper states that the investigation made by the Finance Minister into the administration of the Credit Foncier has clearly proved the solidity of the undertaking, although several irregularities have been encountered and reproved.

Madrid, June 23rd—To-day's bulletin reports five deaths and nine new cases.

Rio de Janeiro, June 23rd—The new Constitution of the Federal Republic of Brazil was published last night; it consists of eighty-five clauses, and its text, with certain slight modifications, is identical with the Bill already published.

WEST COAST TELEGRAMS

Valparaiso, June 23—The Peruvian gunboat Lima, under the command of Captain Rupesto Alzamora, arrived here to-day.

Last night there was a large meeting of Democrats; a resolution was passed to petition the Government to reconsider the agreement authorising the promulgation of the law with reference to the right of public meeting, to place all strangers on an equal footing with natives in the colonisation law and to suppress artificial immigration. These resolutions were sent to the General Directory in Santiago to be presented to the Government. At the same hour and for similar purposes, a meeting of the Democratic party was held in Santiago. A deputation waited on the President of the Republic and read the resolutions passed at these meetings. The President promised not to publish the ordinance as to meetings, in consideration of the moderation and good order with which this right was being used by the public.

ALARMS.

The extraordinary measures of precaution, supposed to have been taken by the Chief of Police, such as the sudden and summary arming of the force, distribution of rifles, regulations on the use of revolvers by officers of that body, and keeping under arms nightly several hundred men at the Policia, have been the cause of much alarm in the public for the last three days. The alarm began with the strange announcement, since confirmed, that the Minister of Interior, Dr. S. Zavalia, had given orders to the Chief of the Arsenal to deliver 700 rifles, with their complement of cartridges and other accessories, to the police. Why the police should need rifles in these times of political and social quiet, baffles all conjecture! The incipient alarm, however, gathered much greater proportions, and is spreading still, under the influence of the still more startling announcement that a very large body of police is kept under arms every night at the Policia. What's up? This is the query on everybody's lips. The police evidently fear something—are these fears real or are they feigned?

It is idle to speculate on the possibility of a revolution in this city. Such apprehensions may be dismissed. A revolution, no doubt, is brewing in Entre Rios; before many days or hours we shall hear that the whole province is ablaze, that armed bands are scouring the North and South of Urquiza's old feudal territory. Then we shall see National Intervention, the great desideratum of the opposition party who care not to allow the actual Governor to have it all its own way. National guns and bayonets will establish peace and a compromise will be arrived at in the appointment of a new Governor who will be neither fish nor flesh and will please neither party. All this is coming, but what has this to do with the police alarm in this city? Revolutions in this capital are out of the question; we have outlived those days. The only political risk of this nature is a "coup d'etat", but who, under present circumstances, could venture into such an adventure? Certainly not the so called opposition party which is merely in process of formation, still lacking cohesion and leadership; certainly not the foreigners of this city who have neither a political nor social agitation to fall back on. It cannot be in such quarters that the police fear serious contingencies; it is not the foreigner, nor the member of the Union Civica, that raises a phantom to put rifles into the policemen's hands. The bugbear of the police must be sought in other quarters.

All these alarms, all these precautions proclaim to the world that there are dangers ahead, and those dangers must necessarily lie in the very composition of the governing party, since they cannot be traced in foreign elements nor in the opposition. Can it be that the governing party is breaking asunder, that one of its factions inspires fear and distrust, that we are on the eve of a political decomposition? Let us hope not. Some idle speculators talk of the resignation of the President of the Republic! They know not what they are talking of. Were the Chief Magistrate to resign his post—no bed of roses to-day—political and financial matters would be infinitely worse. Who, we ask, could undertake to govern, in the eventuality of such a resignation, the country with the present composition of Congress and the present current of opinion in the provinces? Round the President all the governing elements must rally, for nothing but chaos could ensue were such elements to scatter at the present juncture round minor political chieftains. It is understood that a political evolution is now going on and that nothing but the influence of the President prevents a disintegration that might be fatal to the normal march of the country. That disintegration may eventually take place, in fact it will, but let it run its natural course in the race of 1891 and 1892. To precipitate events would be folly, and for the Chief Magistrate to resign would be simply criminal, as no disintegrated member of the party could expect to replace his influence and control without resorting to extremities that might shake the whole fabric. You cannot change horses in the middle of the current, and the President for his country's sake must cling to his high post till the very last day of his term.

Only too many, and among them some who ought to know, apprehend that days of political anxiety are looming ahead, but there is no necessity for hastening their arrival or frightening the public into the belief that such emergencies are at hand; and herein lies the evil effect of the police alarms. For aught the public knows, we may be groping in the dark, and the police may have plausible grounds for an ostentation of precautions; but we cling to the conviction that it is all "umbra et nihil," as the very Chief of Police confessed in a moment of postprandial and classic eloquence at the recent banquet. It is all "umbra et nihil," and may all this remain a mere shadow and a hollow fiction for, at least, another year, when the political excitement of a presidential campaign will not pause to ask if the alarms of the police are real or feigned.

THE LOAN.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

HOW THE LOAN IS TO BE APPLIED.

NO FRESH ISSUES OF PAPER MONEY.

We append the text of the President's Message sent to Congress with the Bill for the Loan. At this moment it is impossible for us to analyse either the Message or the Bill. We may note, however, that the declarations that no fresh issues of paper money or Hypothecary Cedulas will be made, is in the highest degree satisfactory.

THE MESSAGE.

Buenos Ayres,
23 June 1890.

To the National Congress.

The exceptional situation in which the country is now placed has been occupying the attention of the Executive.

Having studied its origin, its present position and its development, the Executive believe that the time has now arrived when the Government should attempt to apply some remedy beyond the power of individuals, and that public opinion urgently calls upon the Government, the mouthpiece of the people, to change the situation and apply active remedies emanating from the combined strength of the community.

Public order has not been disturbed by the difficulties of the situation, or at least only partially, and by means of the proposed scheme, the Executive believe that it will remain undisturbed.

The collection of the Customs' revenue in gold, already sanctioned and in work, will contribute to establish an equilibrium between income and expenditure, part of the latter having to be paid in gold.

It is possible that the Customs' receipts will show a falling off in the current year, since there are two active factors tending to this end, viz., the increase in the price of all articles of consumption in consequence of the depreciation of the circulating medium and the greater economy in expenditure imposed upon consumers by the exigencies of the situation.

These causes will probably bring about a diminution in the national revenue, but the Executive do not believe that such diminution will exceed the result of their efforts to regulate the revenue and moderate and reduce the expenses of government, which efforts, up to a certain point, are bound to counteract the effect of these revenue-diminishing causes.

It is not any financial difficulty which now requires an extraordinary remedy. It is the difficulties and troubles of the country itself, as represented by its commerce, its industries and its sources of production, which now claim action on the part of the Government in order to withdraw them from a situation, the continuation of which would enervate and paralyse its progress and would threaten to lead it into a state of general prostration.

The National Bank, the most powerful auxiliary of the commerce of the Republic and the most active agent for the promotion of its industries, to-day finds itself to some extent unable to call in its resources and without available elements to assist the imperious necessities of the market. Actuated by considerations of high public policy, the National Bank has hitherto assisted the Provincial Governments and Banks with means to develop the various districts of the Republic.

The elements which might otherwise have been applied towards the necessities of the market being thus diminished, and the crisis produced by the abuse of speculation and the exaggeration of values coming to a head at the same moment, an interruption in the circulation of money causing a difficulty in the collection of debts and producing an apparent diminution of money in circulation, the immediate effect of which has been an absolute restriction in credit operations, has resulted.

The same, or analogous, causes have made their influence felt on lauded property which constitutes no inconsiderable portion of the general wealth and which is at the present time threatened with an irregular and exaggerated depreciation. The circulating medium, withdrawn from ordinary transactions, seeks larger profits in usury or in financial combinations, and the National Mortgage Bank cannot realise its assets for want of means.

The consequence is that the two great national banking institutions find themselves entirely without working capital at the precise moment when their assistance is most required in order to counteract the effects of the crisis. In this position, the Executive believe that the most efficacious solution is in granting to the National Mortgage Bank the resources provided by the law of November 8 1889, and in giving to the National Bank the means of continuing their ordinary business with prudence and care, thus permitting the use of credit in moderation and removing those obstacles which now benumb the circulation.

This is why the Executive now ask your sanction to the annexed bill authorising them to contract for a foreign loan.

It is absolutely impossible in any way to increase the issue of notes of the guaranteed National Banks; neither is it prudent, so long as paper money is unequal to gold, to authorise the issue of mortgage Cedulas in paper, for such operations would be certain to produce new elements of difficulty hereafter.

In the judgment of the Executive, a foreign loan is the most convenient method of attaining the desired objects, and the Government are convinced that it can be negotiated on advantageous terms.

The creation of this debt is rendered necessary by the economical evolution of the country and not by the exigencies of the Government. Its purpose is to open anew those currents of progress which are now obstructed, to facilitate the liquidation of the crisis by diminishing its intensity, to give tone to commerce and to industry, both of which are now languishing, and to carry out other objects of great national importance in a prudent manner and having due regard to the different interests bound up in the country.

May God preserve you

MIGUEL JUAREZ CELMAN.
A. Garcia.

BILL.

Art. I—The Executive are authorized to contract for a foreign loan of 50,400,000 dollars gold, bearing interest at 5 per cent per annum, with 1 per cent accumulative annual amortisation to be made by purchase when the bonds are below par and by drawing when they are at or over par, the government reserving the right at any time to increase the amortisation fund.

Art. 2 The net amount to be realised by this loan is to be applied towards the carrying out of Art. 1 of law No. 2666 dated the 8th November 1889 and towards facilitating the operations of the National Bank, as the Executive may determine.

Art. 3.—The period, fixed by Art. 23, of Law No. 2543, dated the 14th September, 1889, during which any increase in the issue of inconvertible notes is prohibited, is hereby extended till 31st May, 1893, until which time no increase in the issue of notes of the guaranteed National Banks at the present moment in circulation shall be allowed, nor shall any new Banks of Issue under the law of 3rd November, 1887, regulating the said guaranteed Banks, be established. Article 9, of law No. 2666, dated the 8th March, 1889, suspending all new issues of Cedulas of the National Mortgage Bank, shall remain in force until the said 31st of May, 1893.

Art. 4.—The service of the loan hereby authorised is to be made out of the National receipts and income.

Art 5.—Let it be communicated, etc.

RACING.

If an ever-varying succession of emotions, pleasurable or otherwise, be any test of the success of a racing day, then the meeting on Sunday last at Palermo was successful in the extreme; but if the true criterion be consistent impartiality and equality, and an absence of unfairness voluntary or involuntary, then must the day be written down as a dire and miserable failure.

Proceedings commenced with the Premio Esperanza which was carried off by Arundel, well and patiently ridden by George Woodburn. No sooner had the cheers which greeted the first victory of an English trainer this year ceased to resound than a rumour gained ground to the effect that Woodburn had been carpeted by the starter for disobedience at the post and had been suspended for a month, and this proved to be true. As a matter of fact, the boy, who during his short residence here has unfortunately several times got badly off, was anxious to start with the others but, as far as we could see, and we were favourably placed and were attentively watching, he did not attempt to take the slightest advantage; in fact, if there were any culprit at all, it was the jockey of Monga Liard. The decision not only surprised but was the cause of much dissatisfaction amongst all the British present who felt aggrieved that a jockey guiltless of offence should have been thus visited in the moment of victory.

In any case, as Woodburn does not understand a word of Spanish, and even assuming that he had been guilty of anything short of gross disobedience, a reprimand would, under the circumstances, have been amply sufficient. It was a very severe blow to the stable, as, with the English jockey in the saddle, Arundel had a great chance for the last race of the day, for which he was fairly well handicapped.

If a jockey is to be suspended for trying to get off at the same moment as the other runners, what should be bestowed upon a starter who allows one animal to commence a race with such an enormous advantage that even if it were the worst horse in training it could not possibly lose? In the classic race of the day Patria got such a flying start that, before her adversaries were fairly on their feet, she held so tremendous a lead that her defeat was absolutely impossible. This is not sport;—the raceccurse is patronised in order to see the struggle at the finish of the race, and we have no desire to see the verdict decided before the competitors have traversed 50 yards. Greatly to their credit the public took this view and treated the winning jockey and the starters to a sibillation unexampled on this side of the Atlantic. Something more, however, must be done in this direction; public opinion has not sufficient power—it is for the Jockey Club to safeguard the interests of owners and the public and their own fair name by taking precautions to prevent, so far as it is possible, the occurrence of such scandalous starts.

An interesting contest was furnished in the Premio Recompensa which was captured by the much-improved Kildare who, when not over-weighted, is fully capable of taking his own part.

Golondrina, an extreme outsider, who was supported only by those who habitually indulge in "long shots," easily carried off the Premio Constancia, whilst the remaining 2 year old event was taken by Citara after a pretty race with Disoluta, Echantress, in the hands of the negro hunchback, not running up to the form previously known by her with Woodburn in the saddle.

Not the least important event of the day was the Premio Terminus, which was started at a most dangerous corner where, some day or other, there is bound to be a very serious accident. Moreover, the horses on the inside have a tremendous pull over those stationed on the outside, whose chances are greatly discounted. Brigand and Firmin, who were both fancied, had the worst position in a large field; they both ran well, but were too severely handicapped by their initial disadvantages. The winner turned up in Mio who on the book held very strong credentials, which he fully confirmed. Ambush, for a time, was very prominent, but the distance appeared beyond his compass, and after odds had been eagerly offered on him he fell away to nothing.

So ended a not uneventful day.

SILVER IN THE SENATE.

The discussion of the silver question begins in the Senate with a curious state of facts. It is an unfortunate characteristic of the present Senate that it is far more inclined than the House to extreme and dangerous measures. A conference of the committees of the two houses, appointed by members of the majority in caucus, finally agreed to a bill which retained one feature of the measure recommended by Secretary Windom, namely, the provision that the bullion notes to be issued against silver purchased might be redeemed in bullion, at its market value at the time of redemption. This provision a minority of the Senators rejects, and with so much obstinacy that the Senate's Committee bill, rather the worst measure yet presented in either body, is taken up for action before the House reaches the bill of the Conference Committee.

The Senate bill, as has been explained, provides for the purchase of 54 million ounces of silver in a month, and for the redemption of notes in lawful money, the bullion to be coined in order to supply the particular kind of lawful money which the silver inflationists desire to have used. It has been repeatedly shown, in the public prints and in conferences at Washington, that the only conceivable reason for objecting to the redemption of notes in bullion is that the notes would then represent a definite value in gold, and could not in definitely depreciate, because that value in silver bullion would be preferred by holders to the standard dollars. Consequently there can be no reason for wanting this provision omitted, except to force the redemption of notes with standard dollars, and as a result the depreciation of the notes to the silver value. The vital object of this measure is to force the commerce and business of the country to a silver basis. The fact is not altered by the claim that silver would be raised in value through the monthly purchases, so that its depreciation would not any longer be a source of practical danger. This claim has only one foundation, that the price of bullion might be hoisted by speculation for a time, to almost any figure, since the holders of bullion would have a sort of perpetual corner, and the Treasury would be obliged to buy while they could forestall the market, and fix the price at their pleasure Very likely some acrobatics in the bullion market might follow the passage of such a bill as this. Silver might be easily lifted, only to fall as swiftly, and probably to a lower point than before, when the motive for artificial hoisting ceased to operate. Then it would come to pass that the forced payment of any small sum in silver dollars to a creditor demanding gold might immediately put gold to a premium, and make the depreciated silver dollar the standard of values in this country.

As has been said, that appears to be precisely what the advocates of the measure want, and if they have outrageously slandered themselves by their own conduct and declarations, it is their fault. Neither the purchases nor any other influence could again lift the price of silver in any permanent sense, after gold had gone out of monetary use in this country and had come to command a premium. The shifting of prices might be frequent and violent, but the scarcity of gold in a silver-using country would have its natural effect, and the whole mass of paper, being then redeemable technically in silver, though not honestly, would have all the vicious effects of inflation.

Many Senators presume that the demand of the extreme silver men, who will move for unlimited coinage, will be defeated. But this will really make no great difference, for the end would be about as sure and about as near with purchases of 54 million ounces yearly as with unlimited coinage. The production last year, according to the latest report of the Mint, exceeded that quantity by three million ounces, and in addition the imports of silver bullion about equaled the quantity required for use in the arts. But in addition there is an enormous increase in production, which is likely to continue so long as the Government is liable to be forced into the market as a purchaser. The indefinite increase of production, and the possibility of indefinite imports, will ensure a supply much beyond the demands of the whole world, and can hardly fail to have their natural influence upon prices in the end.—N Y Commercial Bulletin.

"The bride wore a handsome travelling suit of 'Eiffel' red," says a contemporary. Certainly a most appropriate dress for a "tower."

Railway Items.

Our diminutive Colonia contemporary, El Uruguayo, of last Thursday, gives an interesting account of a trial trip over the Western rails to the wharves and deposits of the line. The party comprised Messrs Smith, Tate, Countryman, Baker, Collar, Weaver, Sheppard, Barclay, Gibbs, Haselgren and Mallaroni. The strength of the bridges was tested, and the party found that the line was very solidly built. The station is approaching completion. Mr Tate is the engineer in chief, and it is stated that he will leave shortly for Europe, Mr. Countryman taking his place.

The Southern Railway, from yesterday, are collecting a premium of 65 per cent on notes in payment for freight.

The North Provincial Argentine Railway Co., Limited, has been floated in London with a capital of £1,200,000 in 9,000 Preference £100 shares and 3,000 ordinary £100 shares. We note that the representative here, Mr. David Maciver, has applied for the registration of the statutes of the new Company.

The kilometrage of the Oeste Santafecino last month was 426,208.

A telegram was received from London yesterday announcing the issue of £300,000 North East Argentine Railway stock. This is the Clark Railway from Monte Caseros to Corrientes and Posadas.

The classification and tariff tables approved by the N. R. Board for the North-West Argentine are to hold good for the National Railways.

According to the official statements forwarded to the N. R. Board, the gross returns of the Southern Railway in April last were $643,840, the working expenses $297,729, and the loss in exchaug $176,700. This leaves a not earning of $169,411.

The River Plate Times says:—

"We learn on good authority that the plans for a grand Central Railway Station, to replace the present insufficient building, have been accepted in their mean details, and that there only remains a question with the Municipal Board respecting the right of way in certain roads which will be closed by the new building. This too, we understand, is in a fair way to be amicably settled. According to the Siglo the Board has offered to compromise its right to the transversal streets, in consideration of the company undertaking the paving of the rampart in Calle Rio Negro, and of other streets surrounding the station. The station, we understand, is to occupy six squares, fronting Calle Queguay, and the Rampla Sud America (prolongation of Calle Rio Negro). In Calle Miguelete, in front of the station, a public plaza will be arranged. The Municipal Engineer estimates the cost of the station building, independent of surrounding works, at rather more than $700,000."

We will add that we trust the project will fare better than our grand scheme for a Central Terminus. Government here wanted to spend one million sterling for a suitable edifice.

THE POLITEAMA.

UN DRAME NOUVEAU.

This strong play, which has previously been seen in Buenos Ayres, in the original Spanish, was produced by the Coquelin Company on Saturday last with but a modified degree of success The drama is up to a certain point, well written, but it lamentably falls off when approaching the climax, and the final scene was to the majority of the audience totally unintelligible; this was partly due to the stage-management and partly to the author. It is a strange fact that, with very few exceptions, plays dealing with stage-life are not successful; they never appear to touch the heart of the public.

The grim and repulsive plot would have suited the style of Robert Browning who has several times treated so newhat similar themes; it is, however, scarcely sufficiently interesting to bear the weight of an evening's entertainment. The author has, moreover, committed a most serious error. He has gratuitously introduced Shakespeare amongst his characters without the slightest necessity for so doing, for any mythical personage would have equally suited the situation. Nor did the artistic mistake end here, for, unfortunately the role was entrusted to that clever young actor, Jean Coquelin, and being entirely out of his range, the result was something approaching a fiasco; the dignity, the carriage, the nobility of our great poet, were absent and nothing remained but a doddering old man. It is impossible to blame the actor, but it is nevertheless true that he presented nothing but a caricature, not laughable only but absolutely painful to all Englishmen.

The role of Yorick is a most arduous one and in the earlier acts Coquelin did it full justice. The joy of the low comedian when entrusted with a great tragic part, his fatherly love towards his young wife, his pride in his adopted son, his growing doubts were depicted to the life. He once more displayed the extent and certainty of his vast resources and has again proved the variety and completeness of his admirable method. In the last scene, however, he seemed fatigued and did not make the most of the great point when, on the mimic stage, he receives the proof of his own dishonour. Notwithstanding this slight weakness, it was a great all round performance. Duquesne, in a Iago like character, was beyond reproach and arrested the attention of all whenever he was on the stage. Mdlle. Barety made an admirable Alice and in the great scene of the second act produced, with Coquelin, a most powerful impression.

Great impatience was shown by the audience at the long entractes and at the lateness of the time of commencing, the curtain not rising on the first act till 8.55

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The week opened yesterday with the "veranito de San Juan" (but rather a cool little summer) and a grasshopper skip in the gold premium. The news that three more regiments from the Interior—one of cavalry and two of infantry—have been ordered to this city was considered hot enough to counteract any coolness in the weather. The greater part of the Argentine army will be in garrison here for the 9th of July, so the review on that patriotic occasion will probably be splendid (weather permitting). Later came the great news of the day—nay, of the week—viz., the President's Message to Congress and the accompanying Bill, which hold out the blessed hope of no more shin-plasters or paper Cedulas for three years to come. The proceeds of the loan will go to repair the ravages in the coffers of the National and National Mortgage Banks, and all sorts of golden promises of amendment and retrenchment are held out for the future.

Some zest was given to life yesterday in business circles by the absence from their usual haunts of two well-known provision brokers. Shortage well over a million dollars (depreciated)

We call attention to the advertisement in another column in reference to the meeting to consider the starting of the "Sailors' Mission and Home," a good work that has already secured the warm sympathy of the whole English-speaking community.

The opening game of the St. John's Church Football Club is to be played under Rugby Union Rules to-day at 3 p.m. at Highfield off the Santa Fe road. All players interested in the club are invited

A singular strike occurred recently at Hargreaves cotton mills, Massachusetts The Irish girls employed there insisted on wearing green ribbons, whereupon the English and Scotch girls retaliated by wearing orange and blue. To put an end to the rivalry, which interfered with work, the manager ordered both parties to take off their decorations at once. The Irish girls refused, and left the mill in a body.

The Doria Theatre was, as usual, crowded on Sunday last, the programme consisting of "Fra Diavolo" (in Italian) and "La Gran Via" (in Spanish). In the first named Sta. Trauner sang well and car-fully as Zerlina whilst Monteverde made an admirable bandit; his assistants were two of the most truculent-looking villains possible; they rendered a splendid account of themselves in the parody of the 3rd act and were encored again and again. The "Gran Via" went with a bang and a fizz, more especially the pantomimic portions.

Gerald O'Neill, the trainer of Arundel, who was presented by him on Sunday last in a perfect state, has at the present moment one vacant box in his stables. Anyone wanting a careful and able trainer for a good horse should not hesitate a moment, but embrace this opportunity.

Mr. Sturzvegger, of the new Helvetia Colony in B O., says that sugar-cane is splendid feeding or horses and horned cattle, and also for birds. It is grown in parts of North America and France solely for feeding purposes. A turkey fed on sugar cane is the most delicate and delicious "plato" possible to touch with a knife and fork.

The civic chair will know Mr. Seeber no more, even if he come back from Europe with twice as many sublime and magnificent projects as he did when he last beamed and boomed on us from the Old World. It is said that the present "pro tem" Lord Mayor, a gentleman in every way strong enough for the place, will be the new permanent Chief Magistrate of the city.

Mr. Francis Ferreira's articles on the Crisis which appeared in the Prensa have been published in neat pamphlet form; so bankers, merchants, financiers and political economists can now reperuse, ponder and write to the papers about them at their leisure.

Though immigration has so immensely fallen off, it appears to be still far superior to the brain power of those officials charged with the severe intellectual task of landing the new comers. The Censor's charge that some hundreds of immigrants were recently left to pass the night packed in a wretched little tender appears to be substantially correct, in spite of official denials and explanations.

We are requested to state that a novena of Masses, commencing on the 20th and ending on the 28th inst., will be offered up for the late lamented Mr. John Shannehan, of Salado, Navarro, who died on the 28th ult., at the Passionist Church, Buenos Ayres; St. Patrick's College, Mercedes; and Business on 'Change at the second hour was important both in gold and stocks, the latter weakening off and the former stiffening. Brokers reported a good deal of the precious metal changing hands and the demand so stiff that at one moment a sale was posted at 243, which, however, gave way at the close to 241 buyers cash, and sellers end of the month, and 242 sellers end of July. National Bank shares just kept their heads up at 167 cash and the end of the month, and 165 for the end of July. Constructors were neglected and Catalinas left off tottering at 37.90 cash and 38.20 for the end of the month. In Cedulas a little more was done than in the morning, but rates showed a steady decline.

"Six and a half per cent. per annum is a very good dividend, but there is no reason why a still larger return should not be made by the Municipal Gas Company, and the directors have done the right thing in reducing by one half the charge made for the rent of meters. This reduction should encourage the use of gas for private consumption. We observe, from the report just issued, that the contract with the Municipality of Montevideo for the public lighting of the city is still in suspense. The net profit to December last year was £48,522, which has been passed to the credit of profit and loss. From this latter account provision has been made, as usual, for income tax, loss on exchange, and bad and doubtful debts, and £5,008 has been written off capital expenditure accounts for depreciation. The sum of £5,000 has been transferred to reserve account, which now stands at £70,000 and £1,500 has been added to insurance account, increasing it to £11,500. The balance then remaining at the credit of profit and loss available for dividend is £37,303. Of this the directors paid on November 30 last an interim dividend in respect of the half-year ended June 30 of 12s. per share, free of income tax, and they now recommend the payment of a further amount of 14s. per share, also free of income tax, making together a dividend of 6½ per cent. for the year. This will absorb the sum of £35,225, and leave a balance of £2,078 to be carried forward.—European Mail.

Wolseley Sheep Shearing Machine Company, limited.

MR. WILLIAM ALISON, of Canonbar, N.W.S., writes under date 3rd September, 1889:

"I have gone in for the Wolseley machine shears, and you will be glad to hear that they are doing capital work. I shared a couple of sheep with the machine shears, after they had been shorn by the old-fashioned shears, and got 6 ozs. from the one and 6½ ozs. from the other. These sheep were really creditably shorn by the shears, and I quite believe that, take the average shearing through, I shall save at least ½ lb. of wool on each sheep. The sheep are turned out without a cut, and looking most happy and like pictures. One no longer has to pace up and down the shearing floor quietly indulging in bad language, for it is easier for the shearer to do the work well than badly. I feel satisfied that in the course of a few years very little shearing will be done by the ordinary hand shears.

"My shed having 60 machines, and being alongside the railway line, has been very largely visited by squatters and others, and not one but has been greatly delighted with the success. The tallies have reached 176, 164, 160, and so on per day. I believe that, before shearing is over, the whole sixty men will average 100 each. Such an average was quite impossible under the old system, owing to men being off with sore wrists, hands, etc.

* * * * * * * * *

"I have already placed another order for 40 machines for the Merrualan shed. We had a lot of trouble at first, owing to a deficiency in combs and cutters. Wolseley, it appears, has been very slack in sending out sufficient quantities; in fact, the company has lost thousands of pounds through its inability to supply sufficient machines for new orders."

"Curative Paste"
BUCHANAN.
Colonia (B. O.), May 1890
Gentlemen—
Having recently accepted the Agency for the "Sale of Curative Paste" for this Republic, I have great pleasure in introducing this dip to your notice.
This dip has been found unrivalled by some of the largest Estancieros that have used it for some time past; and this great success has induced the manufacturer to bring it more prominently before the sheep-farming Republic.
As a cure of Scab it is the most effective, and as a preventive the most permanent that has ever been offered to the public. Scab CANNOT EXIST where "CURATIVE PASTE" is used.
As an economiser of time, labour and expense, it is decidedly the best; curings are less frequent, the necessity of extra men is avoided and consequently less expense incurred.
But in addition to this, we claim and can prove that sheep cured with this dip yield a vastly superior quality and greater quantity of wool than those cured with other dips.
These are advantages that a sheep-farmer cannot, and will not, overlook if he wishes to manage his animals profitably.
Try a sample and satisfy yourselves that in recommending "Curative Paste" to be the most effective, the safest and cheapest dip existing we do but claim that which is admitted by all who use it. (Vide testimonial.
Yours truly
ARTHUR JAS. KELLY.
